School Code: 181/ NCOA School
Code: 681

* No Tuition Fees ****

As a U.S. Army institution, all seats at TJAGLCS courses are controlled by the United States Army. Attendance at resident courses is limited to those persons to whom a student quota has been allocated. Quotas are managed by the Army Training Requirements and Resources System (ATRRS), the Army's official training management program. The process for obtaining a quota is to enter student reservations into ATRRS through local training offices/Legal Administrators. Organizations without quotas for courses conducted by The Judge Advocate General's School may use ATRRS to place students on a waiting list for specific classes.

All DOD organizations should reflect their training needs in the Total Army Centralized Individual Training Solicitation (TACITS), conducted in August and April of each year by the U.S. Army Human Resources Command. Student quotas are allocated to DOD organizations through ATRRS, based upon TACITS data.
